

How to take the perfect measurement photo

Support the pet in a healthy normal weight-bearing stance in such a way as to not obscure any of the anatomical points.

- Hands should be underneath the pet's groin
- Make sure that the topline is level
- Be at the same level as the pet so that we are seeing the animal in profile.
- The tape measure, running perpendicular to the pet's body, should show the same "A" measurement as you measured.
- For fluffy pets, use a sling to show us where the thigh separates from the pet's body, or wet the hair down completely so it lies flat against the pet's skin.
